Greetings from the Organizer

It is my pleasure to announce that Japan Science and Technology Agency (JST) will be hosting the "Gender Summit" for the first time in Japan. We will call it the "Gender Summit 10" as it is the tenth Gender Summit since its inception.

The Gender Summit is an international movement initiated by the EU Commission, the policy implementing body of the European Union, to discuss science and gender, which is socially and culturally created men and women. Different from the conventional concept of "a gender equal society" in which men and women are expected to shoulder equal responsibilities and enjoy equal benefits politically, economically, socially and culturally, the Gender Summit is unique in that we consider the difference of sex as an important factor in elevating research quality, and discuss the ideal environment for R&D activities.

In Japan, prompted by the Female Empowerment Law that came into effect this spring, promoting women in all workplaces is required now more than ever. Now that involving diverse human resources in conducting research and development is emphasized, we now aim to contribute to society by incorporating the aspect of gender as one factor of diversity into discussions regarding innovation, demonstrating the action agenda to society and implementing it. In so doing, we would like to encourage a broad spectrum of people from academia, the public sector, industry and the education sector to participate in the Gender Summit 10, sharing the urgent issues we are facing and discussing solutions. As such, your support will make the Gender Summit 10 a success.

Although we are aware that the business environment is becoming increasingly severe, we nonetheless ask for your understanding of the importance of the Gender Summit 10 and allow your management, engineers and researchers to participate in this important, and humbly request your financial contribution.

Thank you in advance for your understanding and support.

Yours Sincerely,

HAMAGUCHI Michinari, M.D. , Ph.D.
President
Japan Science and Technology Agency (JST)
